Its been a huge month in Boulder, the biggest Market Day all year to date and Back to Boulderfest, and also welcoming "3b" opening last week.

Back to Boulderfest was well attended and all hotels and clubs reporting an increase in sales, which is great to see, with many commenting that they have never seen so many dressed up for the occasion. This event will continue to gather momentum with many of the hotels and clubs wanting to try something more each year.

As we are approaching the end of the year and the busiest with the following:

November 2016:

Sunday 20 - Boulder Market Day

Friday 25 - Christmas Night Markets and Carols in the Park

December 2016:

Sunday 18 - Boulder Market Day and Champion Tomato Grower Competition

Event brings Bavarian flavour to Boulder

■ Tegan Guthrie

It is almost time to break out your lederhosen, dirndl and best Bavarian accent, with Back to Boulderfest just around the corner.

Beginning during the monthly Boulder Markets next Sunday, Boulderfest offers locals the chance to add a limited edition 2016 stein to their collection and travel from pub to club in celebration of the Oktoberfest-inspired event.

Whether filled with beer or soft drink, locals will be able to refill their steins at six participating venues — The Recreation Hotel, The Grand Hotel, The Albion, Broken Hill Hotel, Boulder Ex-

Servicemen's Club and Mines and City Workers Club.

Hosted by the Boulder Promotion and Development Association, the annual event has solidified itself as an ongoing success for Boulder.

BPDA co-ordinator Mandi Warry said the event was a huge drawcard for the town, and enjoyed by people both young and old.

"Locals past and present love to attend Boulderfest as a great day out enjoying the fun and festivities, beautiful weather and many come to collect the yearly stein," she said.

"We have many groups that attend in their lederhosen and beer maid costumes to fully enjoy the experience of Boulderfest, which makes for a great atmosphere on the day."

If the Sunday event does not tickle your fancy, the Saturday night Boulder Beer Hall might do the trick.

Taking place at the Palace Theatre Recreation Centre, the event encourages locals to dress in their best German attire and enjoy German-style food and entertainment by local band Powderkeg.

Tickets for this event are $30 for adults and $10 for children and are available at the Kalgoorlie-Boulder Volunteer Centre.

Boulderfest boosts trade

Traditional Scottish and international kilts filled Boulder's West Street May in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the 1915-16 season. The month-long event was filled with traditional Scottish music and dance, as well as a variety of other activities. The event was a success, with many people attending and enjoying the festivities.
